The consulate is aiming to reach out to students seeking admission in undergraduate, graduate or doctoral studies in the US.

On Teacher's Day this year, students aspiring to study in the US will be able to interact with representatives of over 20 American universities and address their concerns surrounding admissions, programs, application process, fee structure, living expenses, etc. answered first-hand by admissions officers. The education fair, at the Taj Lands End Hotel from 2 to 6 PM on Saturday, 5 September, is hosted by KIC UnivAssist. This education fair will be extended to three other Indian cities – Bangalore, Hyderabad, and Chennai – in the first two weeks of September, reaching out to students seeking admission in undergraduate, graduate or doctoral studies in the US.

The event will offer an opportunity to students and their parents to speak directly with Mr. Kevin Brendle, Vice Consul from the US Consulate General in Mumbai, about the US student visa requirements. During this session, which will begin at 2 PM, Vice Consul Brendle will answer queries about the US visa process and studying in the US. Mr. Ganesh Kohli, Director of KIC UnivAssist, will take the session forward by addressing the attendees about various aspects of American higher education. There is no fee for students attending the event but entrance to the event will be limited based on space constraint and pre-registration is advised. Students can register either on UnivAssist website or at the venue.

Of the 190,000 Indian students abroad currently, nearly 103,000 have chosen US as a destination for higher education. Recognized as the land of opportunity, the greatest attribute of the US is the diversity of its population. The US houses over 27% of the world's higher education institutions. With more than two crore students enrolled in these institutions, the US accounts
